

Terms of Service

This Blog and all materials posted on it are made available entirely free, but is limited to personal use thereof by individual visitors to this blog.

The content may not be reproduced, copied, duplicated, forwarded, or in any way be sold or made available for gain to third parties (i.e., to individuals who have not themselves visited this blog) without the express prior written permission of the author. For permission, please e-mail: ws@edele.org

In quoting from the material, please respect copyright and kindly give due accreditation to the source: Dr. Willem Steenkamp in DELEhelp Blog, www.delehelp.org

Visitors to this blog, visit and engage with it and the material published in it, entirely at their own risk. Although all reasonable care is taken to ensure the security and integrity of the site and its material, no guarantees or warranties are given that it is safe to visit and/or engage with, nor is any liability accepted for any and all damages or harm that may be suffered due to visiting this site and/or engaging with its content, however such damage or harm may have been occasioned.